REBUILDING HOPE AND EDUCATION IN GGES BANBHAN

My name is Tasleem Akhtar, and I am a Class 8 student at GGES Banbhan, a small village school in Tehsil Taunsa, District DG Khan, South Punjab, Pakistan. Like many schools in the region, ours faced significant challenges after heavy rains and strong winds caused the front boundary wall to collapse, leaving our classrooms and facilities in poor condition. This situation was especially difficult for girls like me, as safety concerns made families hesitant to send their daughters to school.

In our community, which mostly comprises Baloch families, the safety and privacy of girls are highly valued. The absence of a secure boundary wall created a barrier to education, as many families felt it was unsafe for their daughters to attend school. As a result, several girls, including myself, had to stay home, which interrupted our studies and dreams for the future.

Assistance came through UNICEF and Sanjh Preet, who stepped in to support flood-affected schools in our district. Their intervention provided not only essential educational supplies but also addressed missing facilities and critical repairs needs. Through consultations with our school council, a School Development Plan (SDP) was developed to prioritize critical needs, including rebuilding the boundary wall.

A supervisory committee, containing the members from the School Council, local philanthropist and DEAs representatives, ensured that the repair work met the needs of our school. Thanks to these efforts and contributions from the Non-Salary Budget (NSB), the boundary wall was successfully reconstructed and other missing facilities were provided, allowing girls to return to school without fear.

Additional improvements, such as repairing washrooms, painting the school building, and fixing classroom floors, have transformed our school into a safer and more welcoming learning environment.

On behalf of my fellow students and school management, I extend heartfelt gratitude to Sanjh Preet and UNICEF for their timely intervention. Their efforts have restored our school and renewed our ability to pursue education. This project demonstrates how even minor repairs can significantly impact the lives of students, especially girls, empowering us to achieve our dreams and build a brighter future.

PREVENTION OF CHILD PROTECTION RISKS THROUGH COMMUNITY EMPOWERMENT IN THE TARGET DISTRICTS OF PUNJAB

Sanjh Preet, in collaboration with UNICEF, is implementing a two-year Child Protection Project titled “Prevention of Child Protection Risks through Community Empowerment in the Target Districts of Punjab.” This initiative focuses on establishing and strengthening community-based child protection mechanisms to safeguard children from issues such as violence, abuse, exploitation, and neglect. The project covers seven districts across Punjab: Rawalpindi, Kasur, Multan, Muzaffargarh, Bahawalpur, DG Khan, and Rajanpur. It aims to work in close coordination with key line departments, including the Social Welfare Department and the Child Protection & Welfare Bureau, to ensure a comprehensive approach to child protection. One of the critical activities involves developing and getting approval for the Terms of Reference (ToRs) for Child Protection Committees from relevant authorities. Additionally, the project will roll out UNICEF-developed packages on parenting skills and community engagement within the target communities. Through various awareness-raising and advocacy activities, the project aspires to reach and impact 200,000 individuals across these regions.

NURTURING HAPPY FUTURES: EMPOWERING POSITIVE PARENTING

The Sanjh Preet Organization, in collaboration with UNICEF, is driving child protection initiatives in District Kasur. To equip parents of children aged six to seventeen with positive parenting skills, interactive sessions were conducted emphasizing non-abusive communication, emotional support, and nurturing behaviors.

In Ramayana, a community facing child protection challenges, Mr. Usman exhibited verbally abusive behavior, harming his children's well-being. Encouraged by the project team, he joined the sessions and learned strategies to replace aggression with positive reinforcement. Group discussions helped him reflect on his practices and understand the impact of his behavior.

"Mr. Usman's transformation is evident. Over the past month, he has refrained from abusive language, fostering an emotionally secure home," said Mr. Asad, a Community Observer. This change has significantly improved his children's emotional security and development.

This case highlights the effectiveness of community-based interventions in promoting positive parenting and advancing child protection in District Kasur.
